Facts

- Sikhs believe that there is the one God - the Waheguru (the Wonderful Lord)
- There are more than 500,000 Sikhs living in Britain.
- A key idea in Sikh belief is Sewa, the idea of service, human equality and dignity.
- The first ten Gurus were the early leaders of the Sikh faith. The first Guru was Guru Nanak (1469-539). The last living Guru was Guru Gobind Singh (1666-1708).
- The final and eternal Guru, the Guru Granth Sahib, was not a human. It is the Sikh holy book and Sikhs treat it as a living and eternal (everlasting) Guru. A copy of the Guru Granth Sahib can be found in every Gurdwara.
- The Guru Granth Sahib is placed on a 'throne' under a cover. At night, it is taken to bed and put in a small bed or cot.
- Baptised Sikh men are given the name 'Singh' (meaning lion). Baptised Sikh women are given the name 'Kaur' (meaning princess).
- Baptised Sikhs are supposed to wear the 5 'K's at all times.
- The 5 Ks are: Kesh (uncut hair), Kirpan (a steel sword - usually a small one), Kara (a steel bracelet worn to show a connection to God), Kanga (a wooden comb worn in the hair to symbolise cleanliness and Kachera (a kind of short cotton underwear)
