

Our Learning Keys

Relationships; Respecting Ourselves and Others.

PSHE

Year 4

Autumn 3 of 3

Questions

- How do we recognise the differences between people such as gender, race, faith etc?
- What do different people have in common e.g. shared values, likes and dislikes, aspirations?
- Why is it so important to respect the differences and similarities between people?
- What vocabulary can we use to sensitively discuss differences and value and include everyone?

Images

Links

Commonality
	Differences
Vocabulary	Values
Gender	Beliefs
Faith	Aspirations
Religion	Sensitivity
Race	Respect
Ethnicity	Offend
	Offence

Facts

- As we are all individuals, we have differences; some of these are to do with our race, ethnicity, religion, gender, our abilities and disabilities etc.
- It is essential that we know how to talk about differences using the correct vocabulary so that we don't offend or upset others without meaning to. Our identity is very precious to us.
- Sometimes we may not seem to have much in common with another person but when we look closer, we have lots of similarities; we mustn't judge a book by its cover.

Doors this will open...

Previously...	: Relationships: Respecting Ourselves and Others	Next...
Relationships: Safe Relationships		Living in the Wider World: Belonging to a Community